Digital Humanities Pedagogy

How do we assess student engagement in the digital humanities and find new strategies for captivating students in the classroom? In what ways can we creatively utilize pedagogical tools in the digital classroom? What resources are available to digital humanist teachers at the UC Berkeley campus? And how can we foster communities for sharing new digital humanities innovations and best practices?

All presentations will be in 254 Sutardja Dai Hall

Quantifying Discourse
Greg Niemeyer + MacKenzie Alessi, Art Practice/Berkeley Center for New Media
Aug. 17 11 AM

The Science of Learning
Richard Freishtat, Center for Teaching & Learning
Aug. 18 11 AM

Technology Services to Support Teaching & Learning
Noah Wittman, Educational Technology Services
Aug. 20 11 AM

Humanizing the Digital Learning Environment
Rita-Marie Conrad, Center for Teaching & Learning
Aug. 21 11 AM

Open to the public | Hosted in conjunction with the Digital Humanities at Berkeley Summer Institute digitalhumanities.berkeley.edu/summer-institute